Profile

Louise Ward Morris is a visual artist who works with experimental videos, sculpture, animations, installations, and computer networks to question the ever intensifying connection between people, technology and the environment. In 2021 she received an MA in Fine Art with distinction from Central Saint Martins where she was awarded the South Square Trust Bursary. Previously, Louise worked professionally as an architect in London, Oxford and Madrid.

She has exhibited in the UK at venues including the Tate Modern, Saatchi Gallery, ATP Gallery, Lux Moving Image and Candid Arts, and in Shanghai. Her films have been selected for festivals including the 2021 London Short Film Festival and the Bomb Factory's 2021 Artist's Film Festival. Her work is in the UAL Collection.
